

The Future of Republicanism: Liberal, Critical, Radical?

26th-27th June 2017
Bowland Auditorium
Berrick Saul Building
University of York

Monday 26th

9.15-10.00: REGISTRATION AND COFFEE

10.00-11.15: Keynote: Philip Pettit (Princeton / ANU):
"The State and the Republic"

Chaired by: Adam Fusco (University of York)

11.15-13.15: Republicanism and Structural Unfreedom

Chaired by: James Hickson (University of York)

Cillian McBride (Queen's University Belfast):
"A Critical Theory of Domination?"

Tamara Jugov (Free University Berlin):

"Interpersonal and Structural Domination: A Kantian Perspective"

John Filling (University of Cambridge):

"What's Wrong with Republican Liberty?"

13.15-14.15: LUNCH

14.15-16.15: Parallel Sessions:

(i) Critical Approaches to Republican Democracy

Room: Bowland Auditorium

Chaired by: Tim Stanton (University of York)

Dorothea Gädeke (Goethe University Frankfurt):

“Towards Critical Republicanism”

Annelien De Dijn (University of Amsterdam):

“Democratic Republicanism in the Early Modern Period”

Gulshan Khan (Nottingham):

“Agonism against the Neo-Republican Temptation”

(ii) Republicanism, Work, and the Economy

Room: BS/008

Chaired by: Martin O’Neill (University of York)

Keith Breen (Queen’s University Belfast): “Workplace Republicanism and the Justification of Worker’s Voice and Control”

Jurgen de Wispelaere (University of Bath): “The Exit Trap: Is Basic Income an Acceptable Way Out for Republicans?” (Co-authored with Simon Burnbaum, Stockholm University)

Robert S. Taylor (University of California, Davis): “Donation without Domination: Private Charity and Republican Liberty”

16.15-16.45: COFFEE

16.45-17.30: Alan Coffee (King’s College London): “A Radical Revolution in Thought: A Slave’s Perspective on Republican Freedom and Social Reconstruction”

Chaired by: Tom O’Shea (University of York)

17.30: DRINKS RECEPTION

19.30: CONFERENCE DINNER

Tuesday 27th

9.00-9.30: COFFEE

9.30-10.30: Richard Bellamy (EUI / UCL):
"EU Citizenship as 'Inter-national' Citizenship – A Republican Intergovernmental Approach"

Chaired by: James Hickson (University of York)

10.30-12.00: Radical Republicanism?

Chaired by: Tom O'Shea (University of York)

Bruno Leipold (Oxford): "Chains and Invisible Threads: Marx on Domination and Republican Liberty"

Nicholas Vrousalis (Leiden): "Why Republicans Can't Criticize Capitalism"

12.00-13.00: LUNCH

13.00-14.15: Keynote: Cécile Laborde (Oxford): "What's wrong with Domination?"

Chaired by: Tom O'Shea (University of York)

14.15-15.00: Parallel Sessions:

(i) M. Victoria Costa (William & Mary): "Freedom as Non-
Domination and Widespread Prejudice"

Room: Bowland Auditorium

Chaired by: Alasia Nuti (University of York)

(ii): Alan Thomas (University of York): "Republicanism, Liberalism, and the Political Psychology of Emotion" (Co-authored with Alfred Archer & Bart Engelen, Tilburg)

Room: BS/008

Chaired by: Signy Gutnick Allen (University of York)

15.00-15.30: COFFEE

15.30-17.00: Parallel Sessions:

(i) Republicanism, Patriotism, & Citizenship

Room: Bowland Auditorium

Chaired by: Adam Fusco (University of York)

Richard Dagger (University of Richmond):

"Republicanism, Patriotism, and the Encouraging Hand"

Yiftah Elazar (The Hebrew University of Jerusalem):

"Contestatory Citizenship and Republicanism Democracy"

(ii) Non-Domination and Republican Democracy

Room: BS/008

Chaired by: Alasia Nuti (University of York)

Malte Frøslee Ibsen (University of Copenhagen):

"Republicanism, Globalisation, and the Withering Sovereignty of the State"

José Luis Martí (Pompeu Fabra):

"A Republican Defence of Multiple Global Sovereignty"

17.00: END/ DRINKS RECEPTION